JUNE 16 - 18 at 7:00pm

Twenty-five years after it first stomped across our TV screens, the iconic WALKING WITH DINOSAURS is returning to public television in a new six-part series that will take viewers on a unique journey back through time, revealing the incredible life stories of these long-lost giants.

In an exciting reimagining of one of the BBC's best-loved factual shows, each episode of WALKING WITH DINOSAURS will tell the dramatic story of an individual dinosaur whose remains are currently being unearthed by the world's leading dinosaur hunters. Thanks to cutting-edge science, experts can reveal how these prehistoric creatures lived, hunted, fought and died more accurately than ever before. As the dinosaur's bones emerge from the ground, the series will bring these prehistoric stories to life with state-of-the-art visual effects – making each episode a gripping dinosaur drama based on the very latest evidence.

Across the six episodes, audiences will meet a range of spectacular dinosaur species in an array of prehistoric landscapes. These include a Spinosaurus – the largest carnivorous dinosaur to ever walk the earth – roaming the rivers of ancient Morocco; a youthful Triceratops battling a ravenous T. rex in North America; and a lonely giant Lusotitan risking it all for a love in Portugal.

Two episodes of WALKING WITH DINOSAURS will be broadcast each night Monday, June 16 – Wednesday, June 18, and will be available for streaming on the PBS app. For a local angle, join us Tuesday, June 17, at 10:00pm for Discovering Alabama: Alabama Fossils.

DOCUMENTARY EXPLORES HISTORY, CHALLENGES AND TRIUMPHS OF CAREGIVING

Premieres 24 Tuesday at 8:00pm

Producer Bradley Cooper

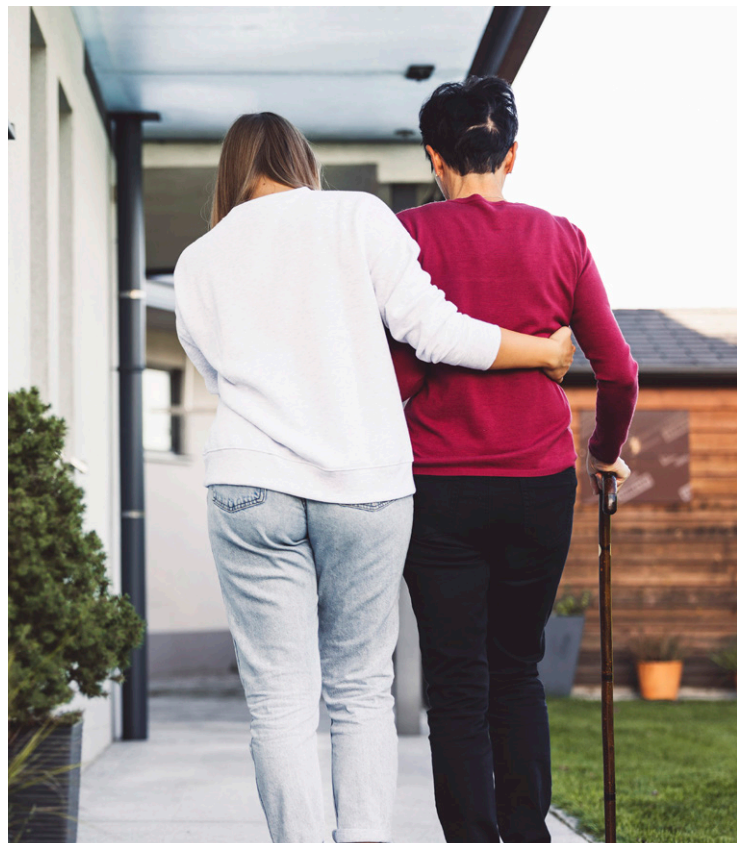

CAREGIVING, a documentary from executive producer Bradley Cooper and narrated by award-winning actress Uzo Aduba, is centered on the personal experiences of caregivers providing for loved ones, and the challenges and triumph they face each day. These stories are interwoven with the broader context of the cultural and economic conditions in the U.S., leading to a care system tipping into crisis. According to recent studies, in addition to 5 million paid caregivers nationally, it is estimated that between 53 million to 105.6 million U.S. adults provide unpaid caregiving for ill, aging, or disabled family members and friends. In addition, an estimated 5.4 million children and adolescents in the U.S. are direct caregivers. CAREGIVING examines the historical and contemporary efforts to address this often unrecognized and rapidly increasing need.

“The caregiving experience I had with my father inspired this documentary,” said Bradley Cooper, actor, producer, director and caregiver. “During his battle with lung cancer, I came face to face with the overwhelming realities of taking care of a loved one. It is my hope that CAREGIVING will provide affirmation and support for those who do this profoundly meaningful and increasingly vital work.”

CAREGIVING brings audiences into the daily experiences of six family and professional caregivers across the U.S. as they share the realities associated with providing care full-time and the often-complicated challenges and extraordinary moments, including joy, that are part of the care relationship. The film features Matthew (NY), a young father who became both his wife and son’s primary caregiver overnight after his wife experienced cancer and a debilitating stroke; Jacob (FL), a 14-year-old who, along with his father, shares the role of caregiver for his mom; Tracy (CO), a young woman balancing the transition from daughter to caregiver for her father, who has dementia; and Zulma (NY), a paid home health aide who has become like family to Sherril, who has multiple sclerosis, after years of caring for her — while Zulma also has her own family to care for after long hours of commuting.

CAREGIVING is already available to stream free at APTV.org and PBS.org and the PBS app. The Caregiving project also includes 18 short films that examine current caregiving experiences, programs and perspectives — at individual, family and community levels. The films can be viewed at wellbeings.org and the Well Beings YouTube channel.

MEET CODY CARLTON

At Alabama Public Television, we believe learning should be meaningful while meeting the standards that shape it. As an Education Specialist, Cody Carlton helps bring relevance to the rigor, connecting what teachers are required to teach with what students are genuinely curious about. Through PBS and APT's trusted content, he designs tools that spark curiosity, elevate student voices, and support real-world learning. For Cody, it's not just about delivering resources: it's about helping classrooms come alive with purpose, creativity, and connection.

With nearly two decades of classroom experience, Cody brings a strong background in curriculum development, arts education, and educational leadership. This summer, he is leading a statewide student media initiative tied to PBS's upcoming documentary The American Revolution. The project invites students of all ages to explore what America means to them by creating original media projects that connect history with personal voice.

Before joining APT, Cody served as a collegiate and high school English and theatre teacher, Chair of Fine Arts and Performance Programs, and Executive Director of a nonprofit arts organization. He has directed and performed in hundreds of plays and musicals, and is passionate about expanding access to inclusive, creative learning experiences.

Cody holds a B.S. in Secondary English Language Arts from Jacksonville State University and an M.A. in Theatre with a focus in pedagogy and performance skills from Regent University. A cancer survivor and advocate for student-centered learning, he believes that every learner deserves the chance to tell their own story.
